

```

In [1]: # -- coding: utf-8 --
        """Refresher activity.
        This script will use variables, conditionals, lists, dicts, and functions to print out different greetings for customers based on their business tier (determined by revenue).
        """

        # List of dicts
        customers = [
            { "first_name": "Tom", "last_name": "Bell", "revenue": 0 },
            { "first_name": "Maggie", "last_name": "Johnson", "revenue": 1032 },
            { "first_name": "John", "last_name": "Spectre", "revenue": 2543 },
            { "first_name": "Susy", "last_name": "Simmons", "revenue": 5322 }
        ]

        # @TODO Define a function that accepts a customer first_name, last_name, and # revenue and returns a custom greeting with the full name.
        # Use these ranges to determine the business tier (and corresponding message
        # for each customer.
        #   Platinum = 3001+
        #   Gold = 2001-3000
        #   Silver = 1001-2000
        #   Bronze = 0-1000
        def create_greeting(first_name, last_name, revenue):
            greeting = ""
            if revenue >= 3001:
                greeting = "Platinum"
            elif revenue >= 2001 and revenue < 3000:
                greeting = "Gold"
            elif revenue >= 1001 and revenue < 2000:
                greeting = "Silver"
            elif revenue >= 0 and revenue < 1000:
                greeting = "Bronze"

            return greeting

        # @TODO: Loop through the list of customers and use your function to print
        # custom greetings for each customer.
        # @TODO: YOUR CODE HERE!
        for customer in customers:
            f = customer["first_name"]
            l = customer["last_name"]
            r = customer["revenue"]
            g = create_greeting(f, l, r)
            print(f"Greetings {f} {l}, based on your revenue you are a {g} member!")

```

```

Greetings Tom Bell, based on your revenue you are a Bronze member!
Greetings Maggie Johnson, based on your revenue you are a Silver member!
Greetings John Spectre, based on your revenue you are a Gold member!
Greetings Susy Simmons, based on your revenue you are a Platinum member!

```

In []: